

NOMINATE BRYAN AND STEVENSON

That Is The Ticket Completed Today By The Kansas City Democratic Convention.

AN EFFORT TO STAMPEDE FOR HILL FAILS

Cleveland's Successful Running Mate Gets The Second Place With Colonel William Jennings Bryan.

The Tally For the First Ballot Stood Stevenson 559; Hill 200, Towne 91—Then There Was a Stampede of the States For the Band Wagon and the Nomination of Stevenson Was Made Unanimous—It Was a Turbulent and Noisy Convention—Silver Republicans and Populists Will Endorse the Ticket.

Convention Hall, Kansas City, Mo., July 6.—[Special Telegram]—Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois, was nominated for vice president on the first ballot. He was vice president under the last Cleveland administration.

Hill of New York would certainly have been nominated if he had not positively declined.

The unofficial for the first ballot tally stood: Stevenson 559; Hill 200; Towne 91; necessary to a choice, 622. Tennessee, Alabama and other states rapidly changed to Stevenson, and New York followed making the nomination unanimous.

Senator Teller says the nomination of Stevenson is satisfying to silver republicans.

Senators Allen and Pettigrew claim that the populists will also endorse him.

The convention adjourned sine die at 3:22 p. m.

Kansas City, July 6.—[Special Telegram]—As early as eight o'clock the streets leading to the convention hall were crowded with people anxious to secure seats for the third and last day of the convention and at ten o'clock, when the band commenced its overture the galleries were already well filled.

Especially interesting is manifested in today's session on account of the report that Bryan would be here to address the convention and it was a considerable disappointment when later the report was circulated positively stating that the candidate would not stir out of Lincoln.

By 10:20 apparently there was not room for another person and the "packed to the roof" expression was really true. It was a good natured crowd, enthusiastic and fresh for more vocal exercise.

Nominations for Vice President

As usual the delegates were late in arriving, while Chairman Richardson himself was a little tardy. At 10:41 he entered the hall and six minutes later the gavel fell calling the assemblage to order.

Rabbi Henry Hayer of Kansas City, prayed. Business was opened at 10:55 when Richardson announced that nominations for vice president were in order. A call of the roll of states was begun.

Alabama passed without naming anyone. Arkansas yielded to Illinois for the nomination of Stevenson. Applause. A demand was made at this point that the sergeant-at-arms should clear the aisles of people standing therein. While this was being done the impatient crowd began yelling for Hill, but the demonstration did not last long.

Williams Presents Stevenson.

At this juncture the New Jersey delegates discovered that their standard was over among the New York seats and Congressman Daly tried to put it in its proper place. The New York delegate objected and there was a struggle which delayed the proceedings several minutes.

In the meantime Congressman J. R. Williams of Illinois ascended the platform to make the speech nominating Stevenson. When quiet was restored he said Illinois desired to present the name of a real democrat (applause). The man he named had stood upon the democratic platform ever since he was a voter. He never was a back slider (tremendous cheering). Without calling his name, Williams reviewed the political career of Adlai Stevenson. "Give us this man on the ticket with Bryan" exclaimed Williams, "and I think we'll sweep Illinois."

He closed by referring to his candidate as the "distinguished democrat and ex-vice president, Adlai E. Stevenson." The band played "Dixie" again and the delegates and visitors cheered.

Hill's Name Arouses Delegates

Delegate E. H. McCaleb of Louisiana, announced from his seat that the delegation from Louisiana unanimously seconded the nomination of Hill. Again the name of Hill aroused the convention to cheering and applause.

Delegate Knott of Maryland, presented the name of Governor John Walter Smith of Maryland.

George Fred Williams of Massachusetts, said that New York was entitled to consideration, but seconded Towne's nomination.

The Illinois and Kentucky delegations led a demonstration for Stevenson which was comparatively short lived.

Nominate Charles A. Towne

Connecticut yielded to Minnesota, and delegate Rosing stepped forward to nominate Charles A. Towne, "not because he was from the Northwest, but because he is American." With Towne on the ticket Rosing promised Minnesota's electoral vote.

When Rosing concluded a demonstration ensued, greater in magnitude than Stevenson's. It was noticeable however that the noise was confined to the galleries. Gov. Thomas of Colorado seconded the name of Towne.

Then ensued the first real demonstration so far as the delegates are concerned. Delaware yielded to New York.

Hill Declines the Nomination.

Thomas F. Grady, of Tammany Hall in a ringing voice, nominated David B. Hill, the "Empire State's favorite son."

The convention became a howling mob. For thirteen minutes the cheering was continued. At the conclusion of Grady's talk Hill stepped to the platform and declined saying his name was presented without his approval.

Must Not Nominate Him

He said he had not sought the place and it was not fair to the others. "I must not be nominated by this convention," said he emphatically. The galleries shouted: "Yes, you will," and Hill intimated that if there was a stampede and he was nominated he would be compelled to decline. There was great applause when he left the stand.

More Seconding Speeches

Georgia seconded Stevenson. Idaho seconded Towne. W. H. Dunphy of Washington put J. Hamilton Lewis' name before the convention. Congressman Jones of Virginia, seconded Stevenson, as did McCreary of Kentucky. Louisiana seconded Hill. J. J. O'Connell of Maryland presented John Walter Smith.

George Fred Williams seconded Towne, but believed if Hill had not declined the ticket would be Bryan and Hill. He characterized Roosevelt as a "Grand Stand Performer."

Stone Swipes Senator Money

Senator Money of Mississippi, seconded Stevenson, saying he needed no recommendation as a democrat. Stone of Missouri, seconded Stevenson, swiping Money for referring to Towne in the manner he did. Congressman Newlands seconded town, saying no one had better credentials.

Declared Hill Would Accept

Congressman Daly of New Jersey, demanded the nomination of Hill. (Cheers.)

When New York was called, ex-congressman Handy of Delaware, was sent

SYNOPSIS DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM

Imperialism is held to be the most important issue immediately before the American people. Extension of government without the consent of the governed is opposed. Independence is promised the Philippines.

Expansion to territory which can be made into states without injustice to the inhabitants of the United States, and with the consent of the people annexed, is favored. Militarism, with a strong standing army, is held to threaten the liberties of the people and the stability of a free government. Strict construction of the Monroe doctrine is demanded.

The Chicago platform of 1896 is reaffirmed, with special declaration in favor of free coinage at the ratio of 16 to 1.

The Porto Rico bill and the republican policy in Cuba are denounced. Trusts are charged with robbing both the producer and consumer, and rigid legislation for their suppression is called for. Free trade in articles used by the trusts is urged.

The Dingley tariff law is condemned. The new currency law is denounced as being a measure in the interest of the national banks. The retirement of all national bank notes is demanded.

Arbitration is urged as the means for settling industrial disturbances, and a department of labor, with a seat in the cabinet, is advocated.

Liberal pensions are promised to soldiers. The construction of the Nicaragua canal by the United States is demanded, and the Hay-Pauncefote treaty denounced. Statehood is held out for New Mexico, Arizona and Oklahoma.

Sympathy is expressed for the Boers in their struggle for liberty and independence. Reduction and repeal of present war taxes are demanded.

to the platform to speak for the Empire state. He seconded the nomination of Hill, and declared he would accept it named. Cries of "Too late."

McSweeney of Ohio, nominated A. W. Patrick of that state. Ex-Congressman Snowden of Pennsylvania, seconded, Stevenson of Tennessee, declared for Hill; Texas, Utah and Vermont for Stevenson.

Then the convention proceeded to take a ballot.

THIRD NOMINATION FOR WM. J. BRYAN

Silver Republicans in Convention Also Put Up the Nebraska for President.

Kansas City, Mo., July 6.—[Special Telegram]—The delegates to the silver republican convention were very late in assembling this morning, notwithstanding the practically important work for the convention scheduled for today. It was past ten o'clock when Chairman Brown rapped for order.

The committee on resolutions then announced that it was ready to report, and D. C. Tillotson of Kansas took the stage and read the party's principles.

A delegate offered a substitute for the Nicaragua plank, favoring the speedy construction of the Nicaragua canal, to be built and owned by the government of the United States. Adopted, and the platform as amended was adopted with a thunder of "ayes."

Teller then placed Wm. J. Bryan in nomination for president. He paid an eloquent tribute to Bryan. He said he knew every other democrat in the party and asserted there was not one of them who had a ghost of a chance for election nor had they any chance since 1896.

AMERICANS TO MARCH ON PEKING

The Chinese Ambassador at Washington Urges Sending of Troops.

Washington, D. C., July 6.—The Chinese minister, Wu, today visited the state department, and made a strong plea for the detail of a strong force of American troops to act with the allied powers and push a way through to Peking.

He urged that in view of the fact that no information of the death of the foreigners at Peking had been received from an authoritative source, every effort should be made to get the military relief to them.

Army officers say it is impossible to send from the Philippines a body of 20,000 men without disaster to the situation in the islands. One officer who has given the subject a good deal of thought said:

"What is there to protect in any section of the Philippines to compare with the necessity for relief at Peking?"

"The Philippines may break out again. What of it? They can only fight among themselves and they can do little damage to property after all the havoc wrought by the long campaign carried on by the Spanish troops, succeeded by our soldiers."

"We can spare a large force of those under General MacArthur and can spare it at once."

Advices from all parts of China indicate that the situation is growing worse daily and that the position of the international forces at Tien Tsin is perilous. Japan and Russia, being nearest to the scene, are being depended upon to rush additional troops to China, and some impatience is felt at the delay.

In the meantime this government is doing everything possible to augment the American forces in China.

Barnett-Rosman Wedding.

Beloit, Wis., July 6.—[Special]—Mr. Frank Barnett and Miss Gertrude Rosman, daughter of Mrs. Julia Rosman, were married last evening at 8:30 o'clock at the bride's home, 302 West Bridge street. Rev. Howland Hanson performed the ceremony.

IMPERIALISM IS PARAMOUNT ISSUE

Democrats Will Subordinate Silver In The Coming Campaign.

PLATFORM IS CHEERED

The Nomination of Bryan Calls Forth the Wildest Enthusiasm at Kansas City.

HILL FALLS INTO LINE AGAIN

Kansas City, July 6.—William Jennings Bryan was nominated for the presidency on a platform which declares that silver at 16 to 1 is still a democratic doctrine, but at the same time pronounces imperialism and the republican colonial policy to be the paramount issues of the campaign.

Aside from the mere mention of the "Heaven born" ratio, the financial issue undoubtedly has been subordinated to meet the wishes of the conservative element.

Compromise Brings Harmony.

The development of complete harmony in the party within a few hours after the bitter debate in the resolutions committee during the whole night has been remarkable. The party leaders seem delighted with the outcome and declare they have arranged a compromise that will bring back most of the men that left the party four years ago.

The compromise adopted is of the clearest possible description, and it is one which, apparently, saves the feelings of Mr. Bryan and at the same time permits a man like Hill to go on the stump openly for the party, which he did not do four years ago.

Ratio Mentioned, but Slighted.

The idea was evolved by which the platform could itself declare that the silver issue was in every way unimportant.

This was accomplished by putting to the front as the first plank in the platform a ringing resolution, written by Tillman, which pronounces strongly against imperialism but cuts around the corner on the expansion question and avoids radical action on that issue.

The plank itself was believed to be an ideal one from the democratic point of view, but to cap the climax a paragraph was attached to it declaring that the colonial policy of the government is now the paramount issue before the people.

This means of course, that silver is a subordinate issue, and this important fact was accentuated by putting the financial plank pretty well down toward the middle of the platform.

Victory for Both Sides.

This was, therefore, a victory for both sides. Mr. Bryan carried his point, which was that he would not run except on a platform specifically mentioning 16 to 1.

The conservative element on the other hand, secured this official declaration that the colonial policy and militarism are the great issues on which the campaign is to be made, while silver is officially sent to the rear.

A Most Striking Scene

One of the most extraordinary scenes ever witnessed in a national convention was that which followed the reading of the first or anti-imperialistic plank of the platform yesterday afternoon. Senator Tillman of South Carolina read the report of the committee on resolutions, in a clear and distinct voice, while 20,000 people, spread all around and upward as far as the eye could go, and rising tier upon tier like an ancient Roman amphitheater, listened intently to his words.

When he read the declaration of the democracy that imperialism was regarded as the "paramount issue of the campaign" the dull gray mass of people rose to their feet and began a demonstration which proved to be one of the most stirring and distinctive features of the entire convention.

An Entrancing Spectacle.

The effect was electrical. As a spectacle pure and simple it was entrancing. As an expression of the sentiments of a great mass of the American people, as a declaration of policy which is sure to have its effect in shaping the future of the nation, it was historic.

True, the very platform of principles which led to this demonstration of flags contains a plank in favor of hauling down the American flag that floats over the Philippine archipelago, but in the frenzy and feeling of the moment one could not stop to think of such things.

Born of Earnestness.

This demonstration was born of earnestness. The feeling shown was genuine. No one who witnessed it can doubt the accuracy of the forecast that in the coming campaign questions growing out of the war with Spain are to be paramount issues. Leaders of parties and makers of platforms may scheme and plan but the popular mind makes the chief issue. This year it is imperialism.

ICE CREAM WAS IN DEMAND

Quantities Consumed by Janesville People During the Fourth

The hot weather of the Fourth of July was a great thing for ice cream men and kept the factories running full blast night and day to supply the frozen dainty. G. A. Shurtleff of the firm of G. A. Shurtleff & Co. said that from the night of the third of July to the night of the 4th his factory turned out over fifteen hundred gallons of ice cream for home and export trade and that over three hundred gallons were used in Janesville alone. The output of Mr. Shurtleff's factory might have been much larger had he not experienced considerable trouble in getting cream, the demand for cream being so heavy that the people who supplied him regularly were cleaned out and he had to depend on some of the outside creameries for his supply.

COVERED 2000 MILES SPOKE 41 TIMES

Gov. Roosevelt Makes a Phenomenal Speech Making Trip Through the Far West.

Chicago, July 6.—In five days Governor Theodore Roosevelt, who concluded his tour through Kansas, Oklahoma, Missouri and Illinois with his entrance into Chicago last night, covered 2,000 miles of territory and spoke forty-one times in forty towns before an estimated total of 100,000 persons.

Two speeches were delivered in St. Joseph, Mo. In the Oklahoma town of Perry and Guthrie, through which he passed late in the evening he said only a few words, but in both places he held receptions from the rear of the car. The average is that of eight speeches a day, though on one day he spoke seventeen times and on another thirteen times, within a period in each case of twelve hours. In the day he spent in Oklahoma City he spoke but once. On Tuesday he spoke six times.

JOHN C. SPOONER WILL RETIRE NOT A CANDIDATE FOR SENATOR

Says His Private Affairs and His Duty to His Family Makes It Imperative For Him Not to Stand For a Re-Election—Thanks Republicans of Wisconsin For What They Have Done For Him

To the Republicans of Wisconsin: There are to be elected in November seventeen state senators, who will participate in choosing at the legislative session of 1903 a United States senator, for the term beginning on the 4th day of March of that year.

Having unalterably determined not to be a candidate for re-election to the senate, I deem it my duty at this time to so declare. I have not since I was returned to the senate in 1897 entertained the purpose of being a candidate for re-election. On the contrary, the only question which I have felt called upon to consider affecting my relation to the position has been whether duty to my family would permit me to serve out my term.

It is, I think, neither usual, nor ordinarily wise, for one to form much less to announce, such a purpose so long in advance, but, as I am absolutely convinced that no change can come in my conviction of private duty in the matter, I feel that I rest under an honorable obligation to be frank with my party about it, and, therefore, to make public announcement of the fact.

I have lately received abundant assurances, all of course unsought, from leading republicans in most of the seventeen senatorial districts, (differing in personal preferences upon other lines,) of their earnest desire for my reelection to the senate, and of their unwavering support. To permit the not unnatural assumption that I am a candidate for re-election to go without correction, when in fact I am not a candidate, would, it has seemed to me, be little, if anything, short of duplicity upon my part, and this I cannot tolerate.

I communicated months ago not only my purpose not to be a candidate for reelection, but my fear that I might not be able to serve out the term, with some of the reasons for it, in confidence, to my colleague, Mr. Quarles, and to a few other friends. Absorbed in the important duties of the session recently ended, and distressed by the serious illness of a member of my family, I did not consider whether duty required of me a public declaration.

No one I hope will consider me unappreciative of or indifferent to the honor which pertains to a seat in the United States, honorably obtained. I will not admit that any man is more keenly sensible of its dignity and importance. It affords, to one who carries to the discharge of its duties, a proper sense of responsibility, a splendid opportunity for useful public service. All things considered, there is, in my judgment, no public position which is at all comparable with it.

I cannot refrain from availing myself of this opportunity to again express to the republican party of Wisconsin my intense appreciation of the confidence which it has repeatedly manifested in me, and my profound gratitude for the honors which it has conferred upon me.

It certainly must be unnecessary for me, in view of my relations to the party since 1884, to give assurance that this elimination of myself from direct personal interests in Wisconsin politics will not in any degree diminish my efforts to promote at all times the success of republican principles and of republican tickets in the state.

JOHN C. SPOONER.

All Depends Upon Japan

London, July 6.—The Shanghai correspondent of the Daily Telegraph wires his paper the following, under date of July 4:

"The safety of all foreigners in North China depends upon Japan's prompt action. Japan has 70,000 troops ready, but is prevented from sending them to China by international jealousies."

The morning papers have various continental dispatches handling the question as to why Japan does not send more troops to China, but none of them throws much light upon the subject.

Mikado Is Very Cautious

The Daily Mail offers some direct testimony from its Yokohama correspondent, to whom was sent the query: "Could Japan have relieved Peking if given a free hand?"

The correspondent replied: "Yes. Japan's strength is ample and her ability to use it unquestioned. The truth is that the mikado's ministers have been exceedingly cautious, fearing that a great display of force might precipitate complications among the powers."

Still Hope For Peking

London, July 6.—A dispatch received today by a news agency of this city from Shanghai, under date of July 4, announces that the British legation at Peking, with 1,000 refugees, was still safe when the message was sent.

Richardson was down in four. Beckwith, Shaw and Rainey took five each.

Following is the standing of the players at the conclusion of the first round of eighteen holes match play: Hitchcock led Pyne by three up, Tiffany and J. H. Brooks were all even, Beckwith had one up on Sullivan, Harriman one up on Livingston and Lockwood two up on Morris. Douglas was one up on B. Brooks, Travis five up on Watson.

Tien-Tsin in Straits.

Paris, July 6.—A Temps' dispatch from Che-Foo says:

"Tien-Tsin is still surrounded by an overwhelming number of Chinese, who are trying to cut the communications of the international forces, whose position is very dangerous. The allied troops, numbering 12,000 men, have succeeded, with difficulty, in preventing by strategic measures or an assault by the Chinese, whose artillery greatly outnumbered the European guns." The French consul at Che-Foo telegraphs that a Chinaman, who left Peking June 25, reports that all the ministers and residents were there assembled at the British legation. The French, German, and Japanese legations were guarded by their own detachments, and M. Pichon, the French minister, and his wife were well. The other legations, the custom-house and the missions had been burned. The foreign troops had lost six men killed and had six men wounded, including the commander of the British detachment.

Brings $800,000 to Seattle.

Seattle, Wash., July 6.—Eight hundred thousand dollars worth of Klondike gold reached the city on the steamship Humboldt from Nome and St. Michael. The treasure came down the Yukon on river boats under consignment by the Alaska Exploration company to the Seattle assay office.

M. J. Nickella, a Laplander, had an individual shipment of $60,000. He is returning to his native land. The Humboldt has the second largest shipment of Klondike gold received in Seattle this season by way of the lower Yukon and St. Michael. The first of $1,000,000 came on the Sans Blas. The upper river Klondike shipments of the 1900 clean-up total about $4,000,000.

WHITEHEAD'S MOVE
THE CHIEF TOPIC

NEWSPAPERS ENLARGE UPON HIS STATEMENT.

All Concede That He Was One of the Strongest Candidates in the List, and Pay Him Compliments—La Follette Men Are Happy—Press Comment.

The fact that Senator Whitehead is no longer a gubernatorial candidate is the general topic of discussion in political circles all over the state, and the newspapers enlarge at length upon the subject. The Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin published the following under a scare heading:

State Senator John M. Whitehead of Janesville has also withdrawn from the race for the republican nomination for the office of governor of Wisconsin, following the example of Ira B. Bradford of Augusta. This leaves only Mr. La Follette, Mr. Stebbins and Gen. Rogers in the race.

The announcement of Mr. Whitehead's withdrawal was made this afternoon in the same paper which brought him out as a candidate, the Janesville Gazette.

At one time, Mr. Whitehead was regarded as one of the strongest of the stalwart candidates, as he had a very good record as a state senator. But when the break came and it became evident that everything was going to La Follette, it was inevitable that he must retire, as it would be useless to allow his name to go before the convention.

A few days ago Mr. Whitehead came into Milwaukee and had a conference with a number of the political leaders. This conference resulted in Mr. Bradford withdrawing and it was considered only a matter of time when Mr. Whitehead would follow suit as he has now done.

It is now only a matter of a short time, it is believed, when Gen. Earl M. Rogers of Viroqua must also pull out of the race.

A Janesville dispatch says: Senator Whitehead late this afternoon handed the Gazette the following card for publication: "To the Gazette: I am no longer a gubernatorial candidate. John M. Whitehead."

The Sentinel.

In the news columns of The Sentinel was the following:

State Senator John M. Whitehead today made the expected announcement of his withdrawal from the contest for the republican nomination for governor. The announcement was brief, and was printed in the Janesville Gazette, which first formally announced his candidacy. It read:

"I am no longer a gubernatorial candidate." The announcement, following that of Mr. Bradford last week, is not a surprise, and it was only delayed to allow Mr. Whitehead time to consult his friends and inform them of his decision. The reason of it is that Mr. Whitehead, like Mr. Bradford, did not find the support which he had hoped for and expected. He was one of the most conspicuous members of the senate, able and hard working, and he was always sure to be found voting on the right side of any question. He took special interest in everything that promised improvement in methods of taxation, and his name will always be associated with the creation of the state tax commission. He was reluctant to enter the contest for governor, and it was well known months ago that his preference there was to serve another term in the state senate. It is presumed now that he will stand for reelection to the senate.

A Madison View

A Sentinel dispatch from Madison said:

Madison, Wis., July 5.—The withdrawal of Senator J. M. Whitehead from the contest for the gubernatorial nomination caused no surprise either at the La Follette headquarters here or in the capitol.

Mr. La Follette said that he had all along expected such action. Of course the withdrawal greatly pleased the Madison man's friends as it removes from the field the one man, had he been able to secure any home following, who might have made something of a fight in the convention. It is now generally believed here that Mr. La Follette will be nominated by acclamation.

Chicago Inter Ocean

The Milwaukee correspondent of The Chicago Inter-Ocean sent his paper this dispatch:

Milwaukee, Wis., July 5.—The followers of Robert M. La Follette are dancing jigs and otherwise dispersing themselves wherever they can find a shady nook. They are congratulating themselves over glasses of sundry beverages, and boasting that "Little Bob" has got a walkaway in the gubernatorial race. Their exultation is due to the fact that a dispatch came to Milwaukee announcing that John M. Whitehead had withdrawn from the race. The announcement is true, having been sanctioned by Mr. Whitehead himself.

This leaves in the race only La Follette, Rogers, and Stebbins. One of the La Follette boosters said they had good reason to believe that General Rogers soon would draw out.

At one time Mr. Whitehead was regarded as one of the strongest stalwart candidates. A few days ago he came to Milwaukee and had a conference with a number of the political leaders, when it was tacitly believed that he would pull out.

In this connection the La Follette men say that they will want a new chairman of the state central committee, and mention the fact that H. C. Adams, the dairyland food commissioner, will be named for the position to succeed the present chairman, J. B. Trent.

Chicago Times-Herald

The Milwaukee correspondent of The Chicago Times-Herald sent his paper this dispatch:

Milwaukee, July 5.—It really begins to look as though "Bob" La Follette would be nominated by acclamation by the state convention when it meets next month. By the time Aug. 8 arrives there will be no candidates in the field against him. A dispatch was sent to the Janesville Gazette today which said that Senator John M. Whitehead sent the following card to the Janesville Gazette for publication:

"I am no longer a gubernatorial candidate." Brief and to the point. Senator Whitehead was the only man left in the race who could have concerned and put in question the nomination of Mr. La Follette, and his retirement makes the nomination of La Follette certain by a large majority, even if he does not get the nomination by acclamation.

The only candidates left in the field besides Mr. La Follette are Senator De Wayne Stebbins and General E. M. Rogers. Official notice of their retirement is expected any day. General Rogers lives in the Third district, and this district is strongly La Follette, so much so that it was a question, even when there was a prospect of a fight, whether General Rogers would get his own county, Vernon. Therefore, under the existing conditions, there is little left but for him to withdraw.

Much of the support Senator Stebbins had reason to expect has gone to La Follette, and with no one else in the field he would have no chance of getting within halting distance of the nomination, hence no one will be surprised to learn of his formal retirement any day.

THE DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM

Adopted by the Kansas City Convention.

THE DECLARATION FOR 16 TO 1

"Imperialism" Cited as the Paramount Issue of the Campaign—Sympathy for the Boers—Demands a Cabinet Office for Labor.

Kansas City, Mo., July 6.—Following is the platform unanimously adopted by the democratic national convention: We, the representatives of the Democratic party of the United States, assembled in national convention on the anniversary of the adoption of the Declaration of Independence, do hereby affirm our faith in that immortal proclamation of the inalienable rights of men and our allegiance to the constitution framed in harmony therewith by the fathers of the republic. We hold that the United States Supreme court, which the Declaration of Independence is the spirit of our government of which the constitution is the form and letter.

Imperialism Characterized.
"We assert that no nation can long endure half republic and half empire. We warn the American people that imperialism abroad will lead quickly and inevitably to despotism at home. The Porto Rico law is denounced, the Cuban policy of the administration is condemned and opposition for the Filipinos is promised.

Opposes Expansion by Force.
"We are not opposed to territorial expansion when it takes in desirable territory which can be erected into states in the union and whose people are willing to become American citizens. We favor trade expansion by every peaceful and legitimate means, but we are unalterably opposed to the acquisition of territory outside the constitution and whose people can never become citizens.

Imperialism to the Front.
"The importance of other questions now pending before the American people is in no wise diminished, and the Democratic party takes no backward step from its position on them, but the burning issue of imperialism growing out of the Spanish war involves the very existence of the republic and the destruction of our free institutions. We regard it as the paramount issue of the campaign.

Insists on Monroe Doctrine.
"The declaration in the Republican platform adopted at the Philadelphia convention, held in June, 1898, that the Republican party 'loyally adheres to the policy announced in the Monroe doctrine' is manifestly insincere and deceptive. This profession is contradicted by the avowed policy of that party in opposition to the spirit of the Monroe doctrine to acquire and hold sovereignty over large areas of territory and large numbers of people in the western hemisphere. We insist on the strict maintenance of the Monroe doctrine, and in all its integrity, both in letter and in spirit, as necessary to prevent the extension of European authority on this continent and as essential to our supremacy in American affairs. At the same time we declare that no American people shall ever be held by force in unwilling subjection to European authority.

Militarism Is Defined.
"We oppose militarism. It means conquest abroad and intimidation at home. It means the strong army which has ever been fatal to free institutions. It is what millions of our citizens have fled from in Europe. It will impose upon our peace-loving people a large standing army and unnecessary burden of taxation and a constant menace to their liberties. Small standing armies and a well-disciplined state militia are amply sufficient in time of peace. This republic has no place for a vast military service and conscription. When the nation is in danger the volunteer soldier is his country's best defender. The national guard of the United States should ever be cherished in the patriotic hearts of a free people. Such organizations are ever an element of strength and safety. For the first time in our history, and coeval with the Philippine conquest, has there been a wholesale departure from our time-honored and approved system of volunteer organization. We denounce it as un-American, un-democratic and un-republican, and as a subversion of the ancient and fixed principles of a free people."

Reads the Platform Continues:
"We reaffirm and endorse the principles of the national Democratic platform adopted at Chicago in 1896, and we reiterate the demand of that platform for an American financial system, made by the American people, for themselves, which shall restore and maintain a bimetallic price level, and as part of such system the immediate restoration of the free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold at the present legal ratio of 16 to 1, without waiting for the aid or consent of any other nation.

Wants National Bank Notes Retired.
"We denounce the currency bill enacted at the last session of Congress as a step forward in the Republican policy which aims at the subversion of the sovereign right of the national government to issue all money, whether coin of paper, and to bestow upon national banks the power to issue and control the volume of paper money for their own benefit. A permanent national bank currency, secured by government bonds, must have a permanent debt to rest upon, and if the bank currency is to increase with population and business, the debt must also increase. The republican currency scheme is therefore a scheme for fastening upon the taxpayers a perpetual and growing debt for the benefit of the banks. We are opposed to this private corporation paper circulated as money, but without legal tender qualities, and demand the retirement of the national bank notes as fast as government paper or silver certificates can be substituted for them.

We favor an amendment to the federal constitution providing for the election of United States senators by direct vote of the people, and we favor direct legislation wherever practicable.

Arbitration is urged as the means for settling industrial disturbances, and a settling of labor, with a seat in the cabinet, is advocated.

Liberal pensions are promised to soldiers.

The construction of the Nicaragua canal by the United States is demanded, and the Hay-Pauncefote treaty denounced.

Statehood is held out for New Mexico, Arizona and Oklahoma.

Sympathy is expressed for the Boers in their struggle for liberty and independence, and the reduction and repeal of present war taxes are demanded.

The Boer plank is as follows: "Peace, commerce and friendship with all nations; entangling alliances with none. We approve this wholesome doctrine and earnestly protest against the republican departure which has involved the diplomacy of Europe, the intrigue and land-grabbing of Asia, and we especially condemn the English-republican alliance with England, which must mean discrimination against other friendly nations and which has already stifled the nation's voice while liberty is being strangled in Africa."

Believing in the principles of self-government and ruling as did our forefathers, the claim of monarchy, we view with indignation the purpose of England to overwhelm with her South African republics. Speaking, as we do, for the entire American nation, except its republican office-holders, and for all free men everywhere, we exhort our countrymen to struggle to maintain their liberty and independence.

Tied and Robbed Old People.
Mount Hope, Wis., July 6.—Two masked men entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ned Brennan, living three miles northeast of this place, tied the old couple, who are about 80 years of age, by the feet and hands and searched the house, securing $163 in money, a $200 deposit check and $110 in notes. The notes and check were found in their barn. The robbers left there and went to Mr. Castler's place, took a span of horses from the barn and drove them about eight miles toward Bridgeport and turned them loose, where they were found next morning.

White Caps: Whin a Woman.
Louisville, Ky., July 6.—For some imaginary offense Mrs. Nellie Scott, a white woman, was taken from her home in the East View section of this county at midnight by a gang of white caps and whipped with bickory switches until the blood trickled to her feet and she was rendered unconscious. Mrs. Scott has sworn out warrants against her husband and his brothers, charging them with the assault. Mrs. Scott's son says he believes his mother is mistaken as to the identity of her assailants.

Kills Babe; Drowns Herself.
Cincinnati, O., July 6.—Mrs. Maggie T. Lehnis, a widow of 25, killed her baby boy by chloroforming it, attempted to kill another son by asphyxiation and later threw herself from the Chesapeake & Ohio bridge into the Ohio river. Her body has not been recovered. Despondency caused the series of rash acts. She had been living in Norwood, a suburb, with relatives of her husband, Charles Lehnis, who up to his death last April held a good position with the Kanawha Dispatch at Memphis. Lately she and her children had lived at Mrs. McMann's apartments on the fourth floor of the Lombardy building. The mother left a long letter written on a paper bag to her brother at Maysville, saying: "Bury the babies and me in one casket. The grave is the only place where there is any happiness for us."

Railway Men Present Woes.
Milwaukee, Wis., July 6.—The joint grievance committee of the engineers and firemen in the employ of the Wisconsin Central road conferred with the officials of the company. Engineer Farley of Waukesha was at the head of the committee. The demands of the men are said to cover reinstatement of dismissed employees and an adjustment of wages.

DR. PIERCE'S Golden Medical Discovery

"I had suffered from indigestion, and only those who have suffered from it know what it really is," writes Mrs. M. J. Fagan, of 1613 East Genesee Street, Syracuse, N. Y. "I had severe attacks of headache and dizziness with cold hands and feet; everything I ate distressed me, bowels were constipated, and I was growing very thin and nervous. I cannot half express the bad feelings I had when I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I took nine bottles of the 'Discovery' and several bottles of the 'Pellels.' I commenced feeling better with the first bottle, and kept on improving. Now I am so greatly improved in health my friends often speak of it. I most heartily recommend those medicines to all suffering as I was."

THE GOVERNORSHIP.

Senator John M. Whitehead is no longer a gubernatorial candidate, and his friends are now free to support any candidate they see fit. Senator Whitehead made an excellent showing, which fact is exceedingly gratifying to both the senator and his friends. The press of the state spoke of him in the highest terms—and the compliments came unasked in every case—while the people showed their appreciation.

The developments of the past few days, however, put a new face on the political situation, and under the circumstances Senator Whitehead concluded to abandon the canvass.

The First Congressional district is therefore left without a candidate, and the voters will choose among those remaining—Messrs. La Follette, Stebbins and Rogers. The choice will be satisfactory to everyone, for it will represent the sentiment of the party.

For more than fifty years The Gazette has labored for republicanism, and will support the nominee with enthusiasm regardless of whom he may be. Senator Whitehead and his friends will do the same, and there will be no break in the ranks, and no feeling other than that of loyalty to and enthusiasm for the cause.

THE VALUE OF A COW.

"The American cow," says a New York paper, "has been feeling the effect of the good times, and has come in for a share of the prosperity that now exists in every corner of the country. Note the following figures of the total value of all cows in the United States, and the average value of each as shown by the Department of Agriculture:

Year	Total Value	Per Head
1894	$358,908,601	$21.77
1895	382,601,729	21.97
1896	393,855,545	22.95
1897	399,259,693	23.16
1898	434,813,526	23.62
1899	474,233,925	23.62
1900	514,312,106	31.60

Cows on the American farm were worth only from $21.77 to $23.16 each under the democratic administration of President Cleveland. Less milk was bought when our factories were closed. But busy factories mean money to spend and more milk for the family; so the farmers' cows are worth more under the protection of the Dingley tariff, which gives the home market to the home worker. A difference of $10 in the value of each cow, between free trade and protection, is an "object lesson" for the farmer.

The Typographical Union, naturally, is well qualified to get up a good "display," so the fact that the printers got the Fourth of July prize is not at all surprising.

The people who proposed to teach Col. Bryan a lesson can now eat their silver porridge in silence—until election day comes.

Do not feel cast down, Mayor Rose. You have had about all the political luck you could reasonably expect.

John Chinaman's life would also be more strenuous if Gov. Roosevelt had his way.

Constant Reader—The street commissioner, as you say, only carries out the orders of the aldermen in nine cases out of ten, but a fact is a fact, nevertheless.

"16 to 1" is still the slogan of the democrats and the forlorn hope is more forlorn than ever.

The Chinese situation is still exceedingly firecrackery.

Bryan has the Kansas city crowd buckkized.

GREW IN SPITE OF AGE.

Corn Found In Indian Mound Plant.

Floyd Tully of Stout, O., has received from a Clay county (Ky.) friend an ear of corn that has a history. It was grown from seed dug out of an Indian mound in that county, says the Cincinnati Commercial Tribune. The seed, which was 30 feet under ground, was in a jar, sealed, and was close to a skeleton that measured 8 1/2 feet in height.

The corn was planted and proved a good yielder, and the ear presented to Mr. Tully was part of the product. Mr. Tully distributed kernels among his friends, who will plant them this year.

Boer Chivalry.

"The Boers were awfully good to me at Koon Spruit," wrote Lieutenant Hall, First Natal fusiliers, in a letter home. "One shouted out as he came up: 'All right, old chap. You're all right.' Another brought me a saddle and put it up to keep the sun off, and a nice old man with a gray beard brought an umbrella and left it with me as a sunshade. They nearly all came up smoking pipes, and most spoke English. They are a very fine looking lot of men and certainly fought splendidly."

"Allow me to express my deepest sympathy at the loss you and your family have sustained," wrote the Boer General Vols to a British widow. "As becomes a Christian people, we are trying to act like Christians toward our neighbors who call themselves our enemies. We are trying to make those of your countrymen who are wounded as comfortable as circumstances permit. May God bless and console you and the many widows and orphans in your as well as our land."

Gold Nuggets For Gifts.

Scraps made of gold nuggets taken from the Tickle claim at Cape Nome were distributed at Asbury Park recently by Richard Stockton of Trenton, when the anniversary of his birth was celebrated by his friends, says the New York Press. Mabel B. Marger, secretary of the Interstate Fair association, was the host. In the party were Anthony H. Kuser of Bernardsville, Thomas C. Barr of Newark, Frederick W. Roebbling, State Comptroller Hancock, former Senator Blackwell and Walter S. Lennox. The visitors made a trolley tour of the coast, and there was a banquet at the Roseton farm on Deal lake.

Discovered at Last.

The Boxers appear to be the bull in the China shop.—Houston Post.

GREAT UPHEAVAL TO COME.

A Russian View of the Crisis in China.

The London Daily Express publishes the following from St. Petersburg: "Prince Ochtomsky, editor of the Viedomosti, a great Chinese authority, says the Boxers are one of the old secret societies with which modern China is honeycombed. They have been working against foreigners for generations. The Boxers will probably be put down, but it is feared that a great number of men, women and children will be murdered before that can be effected."

"The prince says the present difficulty is temporary and cannot be compared with the great upheaval that is to come. He adds: 'The awakening of the Chinese will be terrible. All those warlike instruments of destruction the use of which they are being taught will probably be turned against the Europeans themselves. The Chinese have no fear of death, and they make excellent soldiers under European instructors. The prospect for Europe and Europeans is not pleasant.'"

The Russian minister at Peking, who also acts as the envoy of Denmark, is credited with having wired to the Danish foreign office that a demonstration had been planned, under the leadership of England and Russia, in which all the great powers and several of the smaller will take part. The latter are called upon to send troops, as there are enough on the spot, but they are to be asked to delegate the right to hold their flags to the great powers in order that a demonstration may be made or a battle fought under the flags of all Europe.

Electric Fans For India.

At last the punkah cooly in India is to have a season of repose. The Indian government has issued orders for the installation of electric fans in various barracks and military stations, dispensing with the half hearted and sleepy wallah whose immemorial duty it has been to pull the string of the punkah, or ceiling fan, whenever aroused thereto by the cursings or bootjacks of the perspiring white man, says the New York Sun. Now he is to be replaced by the whizzing and sleepless electric fan, and the suggestion has been made in good faith that the convicts confined in the local jails be set to work on a treadmill and the energy thus generated used to work dynamos and charge storage batteries for operating the fans. Nothing has yet been heard from the punkah pullers' union, and it is likely that the plan as outlined will be carried into effect.

give the Peking date, but add: "With the last re-inforcements the force investing the legation numbers 80,000 men. But for the opportune arrival of the Japanese troops the place would have been captured long since. The heavy fighting resulted in filling the legation with wounded."

Shanghai Is Threatened.

London, July 6.—A statement is published in Berlin that the Chinese have already taken Tien Tsin, but a cable dispatch from Shanghai, shows that according to the latest advices the city is still in the hands of the international troops, though the Chinese forces continued their attempt to isolate them, as they did at Peking. They were receiving constant accessions, many troops arriving from Manchuria.

Build Ships at Home.

The experience of the United States in the purchase of vessels during the war with Spain shows the nation just what can be expected if we were to rely upon foreign shipping with which to build up an American (?) merchant marine. An American merchant marine to be the real thing must be American built.

Southern Electoral Votes.

Protection builds southern mills; therefore protection speakers should be scattered all through doubtful southern commonwealths and secure, if possible, the electoral vote of three or four more such states for McKinley, the great apostle of protection.

People Won't Have It.

The idea of building up an American merchant marine by the purchase and free registry of foreign built ships is entirely repugnant to the American people. No wonder, then, no political party is disposed to stand for free ships.

Not an Issue.

There will be no campaign "issue," in the sense in which that word is generally accepted, on the shipping question during the coming campaign. The American people are unanimous in behalf of effective legislation, and congress is pledged to enact it at the short session.

Which Do You Prefer?

The Republican party has persistently endeavored to strengthen and upbuild the American navy. The Democratic party has just as persistently opposed such a policy at every possible opportunity.

SMOOTH STRANGER GETS CHECK CASHED

IT WAS A CLEVER FORGERY AS FRANK PALMER FOUND.

Young Man Looking Like a Farm Hand Bought Shoes at Brown Bros. and Got the Shoes and $12.60 in Change For a Worthless Piece of Paper.

About once in so often some one in Janesville falls a victim to the forged check circulator. The latest victim in this line is Frank Palmer of Brown Bros., who was caught for $14.60.

Tuesday evening about 9 o'clock, a man having the appearance of a farm hand and told Mr. Palmer he wished to buy a cheap pair of shoes. He tried on one pair and said they were too small, so Mr. Palmer brought another pair which were all right.

The stranger said he wanted the shoes, but had nothing to pay for them with, but a check signed by T. A. Bemis, for whom he had been working, and who directed him to come to Brown Bros. Mr. Palmer told the man it was not customary to take checks from strangers without identification. He appeared as if he had just come in from the farm, so Palmer decided to take the risk and gave him the shoes and $12.60 in money. The stranger thanked him and walked out.

Yesterday morning when the check was presented to the Bower City Bank, on which it was drawn for payment, they were told that they had no such account and that the check was a forgery.

The check was drawn on a Bower City Bank blank and looked like it was taken out of some one's check book. It was signed by T. A. Bemis and made payable to H. L. Jackson and called for $14.60. The party presenting it claimed Jackson to be his name and endorsed the check.

The party working this game is a pretty smooth individual and picks his time to use the checks to the best advantage. In this case he took Tuesday night as the banks are closed for the 4th and the check could not be presented for payment until the 5th, giving him a day and two nights to get out of harm's way.

The same man succeeded in passing one or two more checks before he left town. The police have a good description of the man and hope to be able to locate him.

TROOPS IN CUBA ORDERED HOME

Three Regiments of the United States Army Are Ordered to Leave the Island at Once.

Washington, D. C., July 6.—The Cubans should be convinced by yesterday's orders for the movement of American troops in that island that this government is rapidly preparing to keep its promise to turn Cuba over to its own people. Secretary Root yesterday ordered the Second, Fifth, and Eighth Infantry to return to the United States.

This leaves but one full regiment and two battalions of all arms remaining in the island. They are scattered throughout its entire length and breadth, and so few are the soldiers in number that the Cubans scarcely notice the presence of Uncle Sam's boys in blue. They are divided as follows:

The Second and Seventh Cavalry, eight troops, each of the Eighth and Tenth Cavalry, the Second Regiment of Artillery, and two battalions each of the First and Tenth Infantry. As the military is being withdrawn it is gradually supplanted with a native police force.

This withdrawal will continue until all troops have left Cuba, and before long the entire civil government will be in the hands of the natives.

A few troops still remain in Porto Rico, and when a battalion of the Eleventh Infantry and two troops of the Fifth Cavalry, ordered home today, leave the island, the only troops in Porto Rico will be the native regiment, eight companies of the Eleventh Infantry, and eight troops of the Fifth Cavalry.

ALAN DUNWIDDIE'S SERIOUS MISHAP

Broke Both Bones in His Left Fore Arm Midway Between Wrist and Elbow.

Alan Dunwiddie, the young son of Judge B. F. Dunwiddie, met with a serious mishap yesterday afternoon. About four o'clock, while playing around some out buildings near his father's house he lost his hold, and fell to the ground a distance of about five feet, breaking both bones in his left fore arm midway between the wrist and elbow. He was taken to his home and Drs. Palmer and Gibson summoned. The break is a serious one but on account of the age of the boy the doctors anticipate no serious results. He will have a sore arm for some time but it will come out all right in the end.

FRIGHTENED HORSE CAUSES ACCIDENT

S. HUTCHINSON SR. THROWN FROM A DELIVERY WAGON.

Although Mr. Hutchinson Was Seriously Bruised From the Fall No Bones Were Broken—It Was a Narrow Escape Especially For a Man Seventy-Four Years of Age.

S. Hutchinson, senior member of the painting firm of S. Hutchinson & Sons, had a serious accident betfall him yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock.

Mr. Hutchinson was returning from the Rock county poor farm, where the firm are engaged in some work, and had a light delivery wagon, used to carry paints, ladders, &c. When he reached the hill south of the Indian Doctor's residence, he met a boy leading a colt. The colt became frightened at some object and commenced to plunge around in the road. The actions of the colt caused Mr. Hutchinson's horse to jump and shie, tipping the wagon over and throwing the occupant into the deep gully that lines the road at that point.

The wagon and the stuff with which it was loaded fell upon him. The boy who was leading the colt summoned aid and the injured man was carried to the home of Mrs. Barney Feeley. He then took Mr. Hutchinson's horse and rode to town for the fire patrol wagon, which carried the injured man to his home.

It was thought when Mr. Hutchinson was first picked up that several bones were broken, but after an examination by Drs. W. H. Judd and James Gibson, who met the injured man when he arrived at his home, it was found that although he was seriously bruised no bones were broken. The injured man is resting easier today, although very sore and stiff, his shoulders and neck giving him the most trouble.

It was a narrow escape, especially for a man of his years of age; that he was not more seriously injured is a wonder. His many friends hope that no serious troubles will arise from his injuries and for his speedy recovery.

The only thing broken about the wagon was the seat, the horse not trying to run after tipping Mr. Hutchinson out.

BOHRMICH AND ROSE ARE CANDIDATES

Milwaukee's Mayor and a Racine Attorney Want Democratic gubernatorial Nomination.

Kansas City, Mo., July 6.—Wisconsin gubernatorial politics have come to a focus here during the past week and unless something unforeseen occurs at least two rumored gubernatorial candidates can in the future be put down as a certainty.

The most pronounced candidate, as far as support from the members of the delegation here is concerned, is Louis G. Bohrmich of Kenosha, one of the delegates-at-large. The other candidate in the field is Mayor Rose of Milwaukee. Both have announced their candidacies.

Mr. Bohrmich is an open interview and Mayor Rose in talks with members of the delegation. When approached in regard to his candidacy Mr. Bohrmich modestly said:

"If the people of Wisconsin want me to run for governor I will be a candidate. I would, of course, appreciate the honor of a democratic nomination for governor."

Mayor Rose is not as yet prepared to announce his candidacy in an interview, but has talked with members of the delegation about entering the field, and recently in a conversation with John J. Maher of Milwaukee said:

"If I am nominated for governor I will give them a campaign which will wake them up."

Mayor Rose, in planning to be a candidate, is figuring on Robert M. La Follette being the republican candidate. In that case he hopes to gain, it is said, much of the republican "machine" support which aided him to defeat Henry J. Baumgartner.

LOUIS LUNDWALL IS HELD FOR TRIAL

Louis Lundwall, arrested for stabbing Steve Bestab on July 4, was brought into the municipal court this morning. District Attorney Jackson filed complaint against him, charging him with assault with intent to do great bodily harm. Bestab, the complaining witness, was unable to appear in court on account of his injuries. The examination was adjourned until July 26. In default of five hundred dollars bail Lundwall was committed to the county jail.

BRYAN BY ACCLAMATION.

Nebraskan Named Without Dissenting Vote.

ON A 16 TO 1 PLATFORM.

A Minority Report Against the Tatter Is Not Offered—"Imperialism" Declared to be the Paramount Issue of the Campaign.

Kansas City, Mo., July 6.—William Jennings Bryan of Nebraska was nominated for president of the United States by the democratic national convention. That the gifted Nebraskan was to receive this honor nobody for a moment questioned, but the enthusiasm which followed the reading of the platform and the naming of Mr. Bryan has seldom, if ever, been equaled in a convention hall. It was a burst of approval which bore with it the ring of sincerity and earnest hope. East and west, north and south clasped hands and stood once more together on a platform which is fiercely opposed to imperialism, trusts, militarism and the policy of the administration in the newly acquired territory in the high seas. The reaffirmation of the 16 to 1 plank opened no old sores in the face of the boldly worded declaration that imperialism was the paramount issue of the coming campaign. It is a common battle cry of the party, and it was raised in the great hall with a vehemence which swallowed the melodies of the band and drowned the voices of the perspiring chairman.

Cheered Until Breathless.
The story of the most momentous session of the convention began at 4 o'clock. The crowd wanted to learn the contents of the platform and it was riotously anxious to hear that pale-faced, deep-set eyed man from New York, ex-Senator David B. Hill. But the platform committee was not yet ready to report. The men who were entrusted with this important work were sleepy-eyed after their long conference of the previous night and when Chairman Richardson arose at a few minutes after 12 o'clock and announced that it would be 3:30 o'clock before the committee would be able to report the result of its deliberations there was a noisy but good-natured cry of disappointment, but the action for which the patient people had waited so many days to witness came with reassurance of the convention.

It was not an easy task to get the 25,000 to preserve order. They were bubbling with excitement and enthusiasm and they cried the names of their favorite statesmen. Some whistled or sang patriotic airs. But by extraordinary effort Chairman Richardson was last successful in getting control of this nervously patriotic assembly, and then came the reading of the platform by Senator Tillman. The senator was dressed in a suit of gray, the vest of which was unbuttoned. He held in his hand a heavy roll of closely typewritten manuscript, but there were few if any interlunations in the pages. Men clasped each other about the necks and cheered until they were breathless. From the hands of the women, whose interests in the final act of the great political drama was great, there fluttered countless handkerchiefs and flags. It was an uproar that thundered through the open doors and was taken up by the crowds on the curbstones.

While the convention is busy choosing a man for vice-president, the scenes at the nomination of the candidate for president are still most vivid.

Tumult Is Delirious.
Now came the beginning of the tumult which ultimately was to eclipse any demonstration ever witnessed in a convention hall. With a voice of resonance and great power the South Carolinian began his task. With one hand clinched, as if for battle, he read the scathing denunciation of imperialism, and when he uttered the specific words of the platform that declares anti-imperialism the paramount issue of the campaign a deafening roar of cheers burst from the eastern and middle west delegates. The tumult spread to the far western states, and the southerners seized their standards and swung them aloft. Even Alaska and Hawaii joined in the uproar, which had by this time spread to the galleries.

It was useless for Senator Tillman to proceed farther. The hall, which was streaked here and there by the beams of the afternoon sun, now blazed with the nation's colors. Every delegate as well as every one of the 25,000 spectators was wildly and unduly waving a flag.

The band in the south balcony added to this remarkable flame of enthusiasm. It played "Dixie," "Hail Columbia," "Yankee Doodle," "Maryland, My Maryland," and there will be a "Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight," but it was only when men and women stopped to catch their breath that these stirring airs were heard.

Stevenson Is In It.
Kansas City, Mo., July 6.—The name of Stevenson is written all over the vice-presidential situation. His followers are claiming his nomination on the first ballot, and the Towne people, whose leader will come the closest, having unopposed developments, to make an exciting contest with the Illinois man, are suffering with an attack of the blues.

An Eager Session.
Kansas City, Mo., July 6.—The joint conference of democrats, silver republicans and populists ended in a disagreement. The majority of the democratic members refused to unite in a recommendation to the democratic convention to nominate Charles A. Towne by acclamation. The silver republicans are holding a meeting to decide upon a course of action. Some of the members favor the nomination of Bryan and Towne and joining hands with the populists.

The leaders, however—men like Senator Teller, Charles Hartman of Montana and Dubois of Idaho—believe in endorsing the democratic nominees. They say they are satisfied with the repetition of the silver plank of the Chicago platform, and personal considerations must give way before the cause that gave rise to the party.

Towne's Chance Is Slim.
Populists are undecided. Senators Pettigrew and Allen are believed to favor the resignation of Towne as the vice-presidential nominee of the party and to fill the place with the democratic nominee of the democratic convention. Leaders of both the allies claim that they may not be able to control their voters, who expected the nomination of Towne.

RIVERS OF FLAMES.

Lightning Starts a Terrible Fire in a Standard Oil Plant.

Bayonne, N. J., July 6.—Naphtan tank No. 7 of Standard Oil Company's plant exploded shortly after 6 o'clock. The force of the explosion smashed windows on the hook, and at least one person was killed and several injured. Charles King, an electrician, was the one killed; John Wasto and Owen Drummond, watchmen, were overcome by fumes and smoke, and Fred Maier was cut by flying glass. They all lived in Bayonne. The fire was started about 1 o'clock by a bolt of lightning, which fell during a terrific thunder and rain storm. It struck squarely in the immense yard of the Standard Oil company, which covers 600 acres of ground. Within fifty yards of the exploded tank was the Bayview hotel, used as a lodging house by half a hundred Hungarians and Poles employed at the works. The thunder storm had already awakened them, and when the explosion came they rushed pell mell out of the rear of the building, chased by the streams of burning oil which flowed over and rapidly consumed the hotel.

The oil from the exploded tank swept down the hill on which the works are located. Explosions followed like the crash of artillery as tank after tank was ignited by the fiery flood. Down to the water's edge it went, spreading the circle of fire.

Nothing could stay its progress. Even the water was no obstacle, and from the burning piers, which a little while before had been crowded with shipping, it flowed over into the Kill. Von Kull and floated in snaky wisps of flame out into the bay.

Meanwhile the Standard Oil tugs ran into the docks and dragged out fifty vessels which were lying at the company's piers. Then the tugs formed a cordon a little way out from the docks and fought the flames from that side. Great booms of logs were thrown out into a semi-circle to prevent the burning liquid from flowing unrestrained over the water and carrying destruction to shipping down the bay.

Inside the yards the Bayonne, fire department made an ineffectual fight against the burning fluid. Water was of no avail, and the fire had to be fought by strategy. Trenches were dug to divert the streams of burning oil from attacking property outside of the oil yards. The damage will amount to over a million.

PEI-HO BRIDGE IS SEIZED

By the Chinese After Losing Hundreds.

THEY DRIVE OFF RUSSIANS

From Their Station Outside Tien-Tsin After Two Days' Desperate Fighting—Emperor of China a Suicide—Japan's Important Part in War.

Berlin, July 6.—The Deutsche Tages-Zeitung prints a Che-Foo special saying that Chinese banner troops Monday night seized the Pei-Ho bridge, securing the line of retreat of the international troops to Taku, after repeated fierce attacks in which the Chinese lost hundreds. They next drove off the Russians from their station outside Tien-Tsin, after two days' desperate resistance, and encircled the concession, which their artillery is now dominating.

Emperor Is a Suicide.
Shanghai, July 6.—Emperor Kwang-Hsu committed suicide by taking opium under compulsion of Prince Tuan June 19. The empress dowager also took poison, but is still alive, though reported to be insane from the effects

CROWN PRINCE OF CHINA. of the drug. The above has been officially reported to the German consular staff.

News of Massacre Told.
London, July 6.—The story that all foreigners in Pekin were murdered June 30 or July 1 appears to be circulating simultaneously at Che-Foo, Shanghai and Tien-Tsin. Yet, as it is not confirmed by official dispatches and is not traceable to the southern viceroys, who are still in certain communication with Pekin, there is a basis for the hope that it is untrue. A dispatch received yesterday by a news agency of this city from Shanghai, announces that the British Legation at Pekin, with 1,600 refugees, was still safe when the message was sent.

A dispatch sent from Shanghai says: Says 100,000 Besiege Legations.
"A messenger with official advice, who left Pekin June 27, says that more than 100,000 Chinese soldiers and rioters surrounded the legations, but, in spite of fierce attacks, they had not then succeeded in breaking through the wall. The messenger also said that all persons connected with the palace were proboxer, even the princes, dukes and every one worshipping the god of the 'boxers.' The gates of the inner city, it was added, were open for half a day."

Dire Distress at Pekin.
Cautious observers at Shanghai recognize that even though reports of a massacre are rejected, events in Pekin must be galloping to a tragic end. Correspondents of the Express at Shanghai gather details from Chinese sources, which, pieced together, relate that when the foreigners' ammunition was exhausted the "boxers" and imperial troops rushed the British legation and poured into the courtyard with fanatical fury. The foreign troops were so hopelessly outnumbered that their fate was certain. The moment the mob broke the courtyard was converted in a shambles. Others of the invaders spread into the interior of the building. One correspondent adds: "It is only left to hope that in the final rush of the murderous hordes the men of the legations had time to slay with their own hands their womenkind and children. The Chinese are whispering the terrible story under their breath."

Some Chinese Show Pity.
"Their attitude toward foreigners in the streets has undergone a strange change. The demeanor of the better class of Chinese is one of pity rather than of triumph. Even the rabble in the native quarters are silent. Something of this culminating tragedy in the ghastly history of recent events in Pekin seems to pervade the very atmosphere here and to compel belief against all our hopes. The consuls fear that the report is too true and the Chinese officials do not attempt to seek reasons for a denial."

Skin Diseases

When the excretory organs fail to carry off the waste material from the system, there is an abnormal accumulation of effete matter which poisons and clogs the blood, and it becomes sour and acid. This poison is carried through the general circulation to all parts of the body, and upon reaching the skin surface there is a redness and eruption, and by certain peculiarities we recognize Eczema, Tetter, Acne, Salt Rheum, Psoriasis, Erysipelas and many other skin troubles, more or less severe. While the skin is the seat of irritation, the real disease is in the blood. Medicated lotions and powders may allay the itching and burning, but never cure, no matter how long and faithfully continued, and the condition is often aggravated and skin permanently injured by their use.

The disease is more than skin deep; the entire circulation is poisoned.

The many preparations of arsenic, mercury, potash, etc., not only do not cure skin diseases, but soon ruin the digestion and break down the constitution.

S. S. S., nature's own remedy, made of roots, herbs and barks, of great purifying and tonic properties, quickly and effectually cures blood and skin troubles, because it goes direct to the root of the disease and stimulates and restores normal, healthy action to the different organs, cleanses and enriches the blood, and thus relieves the system of all poisonous secretions. S. S. S. cures permanently because it leaves none of the original poison to reappear in the blood and cause a fresh attack.

Healthy blood is necessary to preserve that clear, smooth skin and beautiful complexion so much desired by all. S. S. S. can be relied upon with certainty to keep the blood in perfect order. It has been curing blood and skin diseases for half a century; no other medicine can show such a record.

S. S. S. contains no poisonous minerals—is purely vegetable and harmless.

Our medical department is in charge of physicians of large experience in treating blood and skin diseases, who will take pleasure in aiding by their advice and direction all who desire it. Write fully and freely about your case; your letters are held in strictest confidence. We make no charge whatever for this service. AWFUL MARINE HORROR

Dramatic Incident of the Great Fire at Hoboken.

SAVED BY A "PETTICOAT LAMP."

Waved From a Porthole, It Brought Rescue to Fifteen Men Imprisoned in the Doomed Main—Fearful Story of Their Sufferings For Over Seven Hours.

Of the many stories related about the recent great fire at the North German Lloyd Steamship company's docks in Hoboken the following account of the experiences and marvelous rescue of 15 men from the hold of the steamship Main, as told by the New York Sun, is most dramatic and thrilling:

After the Main had been dragged up the Hudson until she was about opposite Weehawken and before she had fairly settled into the muddy bottom she was so near to her sister ship, the Bremen, that one could almost have leaped from deck to deck.

Up the river steamed the fireboat New Yorker to see if there was anything she could do. Giving up the Main as beyond aid, she devoted her attention to the Bremen, which lay between the other ship and the shore. The tugs were still hovering like faithful attendants about the doomed ship, watching the progress of the fire in the glow of her red-hot sides. It was nearly 11 o'clock when there came out of the darkness where they lay together a hail.

"Did you hear that?"

Another of the tugs answered, "No, what is it?"

"A noise aboard the Main. Somebody hammering."

"It isn't possible. Nobody could live aboard of her. Look at her. She's almost white hot now."

Nevertheless all the tugs edged in closer, so close that the men on their forward decks held interlocked fingers before their eyes while they painfully peered through the whirling smoke that enveloped them in the hope of finding something to account for the alleged hammering.

"Might be some donkey engine still going," came the suggestion from one of the tugs.

As near that infernal area of heat and smother as they could endure it the tugmen held their place, but nothing further was heard. They were just about to draw away when from a low coal port amidships there flashed a light. It was not the red light of the fire, but a clear white radiance, a signal that meant beyond the possibility of doubt that some living creature was aboard that fire ship appealing for rescue. There was a wild yell from the tugmen, and together the boats moved forward, but another tug was before them. The little Stevens had darted down stream past the bow of the Main and now poked her nose, well swaddled in dripping hemp, against the side of the liner. A cloud of steam hissed up at the point of contact. Captain Gilkinson of the Stevens hailed the Main.

"Aboard the Main! Is there anybody there?"

"Even then," said the captain afterward, "I almost thought that the light must have been an hallucination, and I hardly expected to get an answer."

But the answer came promptly.

"Take us off, for God's sake! There are 15 of us here!"

"Drop down!" shouted Gilkinson. "We'll stand by till you're safe. But do it quick. We'll be able to get you in two minutes."

Some of his men came forward, bringing water, which they threw on the decks and over the captain and themselves. There seemed to be an interminable delay upon the steamship. The tugboat men danced upon their smoldering deck and yelled for the Main's survivors to jump and be extremely quick about it. They did not know that the delay was caused by the man who had signalled turning back to shout to his fellows that help was as possible. Presently he hauled himself through the coal port and peered down into the darkness with blinded eyes. He was almost naked. In the glare from the ship's sides he looked like nothing human, and the deckhands recoiled in horror from the apparition.

"We're right below you. Jump!" shouted the captain.

The man jumped and was caught. Instantly his place was taken by another red lit and half naked figure, which in turn launched itself forth in the air. Then came a third and a fourth. The fifth hesitated before the jump, and it was seen that supporting hands from behind held him. He fell rather than jumped, but Captain Gilkinson was ready and caught him in his arms. Other figures followed swiftly until the first man out, who had been keeping count, reported that all were out.

"We've got 'em!" shouted the Stevens triumphantly to the rest of the little fleet of tugs, and the others gave them a cheer. Only one of the rescued men was badly injured, the man who had fallen. He was in great pain and seemed to be blinded. The others complained of discomfort of the eyes from the great heat and of irritation of the skin, but otherwise they seemed to be all right. As the Stevens moved out the other tugs crowded around to ask if the men had really been aboard all the time. It was almost too much for their powers of believing.

The story told by the men was a terrible one, although they themselves took it quietly enough and seemed for the most part to have taken it for granted throughout that they would be saved. This is how they had contrived to live, as it were, beneath the crater of a floating volcano for more than seven hours, for it was nearly half past 11 when the last of them dropped safely upon the deck of the Stevens. All of them were engine room men, and they were busy doing some repairing about the shaft when they got orders to man the pumps that supply the auxiliary engines. That something had happened overhead they guessed. What it was they had no way of knowing. Anyway they didn't consider it any of their business. What they had to do was to obey orders and trust in their officers if anything was wrong above to take care of them. With them were two engineer officers, Danko and Peters. After they had got the pumps to working Second Engineer Lansberg came running down and told them that the ship was afloat.

"All hands on deck!" he said. "Save yourselves as best you can! The ship is afloat all over!" Then he disappeared. Another order was given to close the skylights. Then the men started upward. They were met by a fearful blast of smoke through which pierced tongues of flame. To attempt to reach the deck that way was certain and instant death. Back they turned and ran into the engine room. Already the fumes from the cargo which had caught were sitting into the room, and the air was choking. Forward of the engine room are the quarters of the engine force. There a dozen of them clustered, waiting for directions. These came from Third Engineer Danko, who bade them go into the shaft tunnel. While they were there three more of the engineer's force joined them.

The three were almost blinded and half choked by the gases and fumes they had encountered. They could not tell whence they had come. All that they knew was that they had been nearly caught by the flames when they tried to get up to the deck and, rushing back into a smoke filled place, had thrown themselves flat upon their bellies and wriggled blither and thither, always hoping for better air and always finding more smoke until they heard voices and found their companions. Here, then, were the 15 men in exactly the position of miners buried in a burning mine and with every exit cut off. What they hoped for—in fact, what they seemed to have expected confidently—was that the fire would be conquered and that they would be taken out. In their desperate circumstances they seem not to have for a moment lost faith that their officers would take care of them and bring them safely to the open air again.

Men who work in the engine rooms of transatlantic steamships are accustomed to high degrees of heat, so these men contrived to be moderately comfortable in a temperature which to the average man would have been excruciating. The smoke, however, was a constant menace. A draft carried it into the passage, and the men were led back to the engine room, but here the air was impracticable for breathing purposes. Nearly every empty coal bunker. One of the officers opened an airshaft hole that somewhat cleared the atmosphere. Through many crevices and pipe holes, however, the stifling fumes made their way.

"Off shirts," came the order, "and stop those holes."

Thick woolen wear is the costume of the stoker, and the shirts were admirably adapted to the purpose to which they were now put. One hole after another was stopped, and the sweet air from the airshaft soon purified the atmosphere. But changing currents above drove the smoke through the gratings, and now it was necessary for the men to turn in their trousers as stop gaps.

All the time the heat was increasing. The sides of the vessel glowed redly, and the men shrunk together in a huddle at the center of the bunker. Then Danko thought of the airshaft and a possible connection with a ladder that led up to a coal port. It was a hard climb, and there wasn't much of a chance that the port would be open. But any chance is good enough for men who are being grilled between red-hot walls. Up the airshaft was the order, and the men obeyed it as best they could, climbing clumsily and with many falls up the pipes within the shaft. From there they gained a platform, whence led a ladder upward to the coal port on the starboard side. Before they had reached the platform they saw that the port was closed. They had no wrench nor way to get one, but a company of engine men fighting for their lives are likely to be fertile of expedients and shifts.

One of the few remaining garments in the outfit was commandeered and stout strips torn from it. With these a sort of knot was contrived which gave a purchase upon the bolt that held the coal port in place. Once loosened the nut came off readily. It was blistering hot work, almost against the side of the ship, but fortunately at that one point the steel plates were a little less heated than they were just forward and just aft. Once the coal port swung loose a great puff of fresh air gave heart to the men, and they shouted in chorus.

Meantime some of them had been pounding on the side of the ship with pickers and other metal implements, and doubtless that is the noise which was first heard by those on the tugs. One of the engineers had brought with him to the coal port a "petticoat lamp," such as is used in coal bunkers, as it does not explode coal gas. With this as a signal he was sure of being seen as soon as he noted the presence of the tugs. Hardly a minute elapsed after he showed the light when he saw the tugs making toward him and knew that the party were saved. All of them were taken to Hoboken, and most of them went to Rusack's hotel wrapped in such garments as Captain Gilkinson could find for them. As soon as he saw their pitiable condition Mr. Rusack came to New York and bought clothing for them.

LOOKING FORWARD.

WHAT PRESIDENT M'KINLEY'S RE-NOMINATION MEANS.

He stands as the Incarnation of a Great National Purpose—Represents American Progress—Strong in Policy and Personality.

President McKinley's renomination for a second term by the Republican national convention was not only wise and logical, but inevitable. Demanded by party policy, it was required by patriotic principle, says the Philadelphia Press. Presidents have been nominated because they were "available," because they sought the office and because the office sought them. President McKinley was named because the entire country believed him the best man in his party for the place. All Republicans believe that he is the best man for the presidency in the country, and every Democrat admits that among Republicans William McKinley is the best man who could be elected both for the party and the country.

Four years ago he had his rivals and his opponents. His majority was secure before the St. Louis convention opened, but the struggle continued to the end. William McKinley was then only one among a group of leading Republicans. He stands alone today. He stood the representative of protection. Today he represents the entire party platform. His public service had been exclusively in the house. He was only known as a representative. Today he is a world figure. His presidential term has made him one of the few foremost actors at the center of the world's stage whose principles, purpose and policy are of weight and moment in all the world's wide affairs.

These are great changes. They register a personal growth in public reputation, in personal ascendancy, in character and sagacity, in the wise direction of affairs and the wise reading of the people's will as remarkable as the events of his term, remarkable as they have been. These changes and this growth have been aided by events, but momentous events constitute a harvest field in which only strong men reap and bind. From war and from peace alike President McKinley has harvested the results which enrich nations and ennoble their history. His life is already so woven in the extending web of national annals that no man will record the growth of its industries, the expansion of its exports, the stability of its currency, the increase of its territory or its assumption of new duties and responsibilities toward dependent communities without writing his name high on the list of those who both make issues and decide them.

Such men, once in command, remain in authority as long as the issues they decide are dominant. President McKinley was nominated four years ago because he best represented protection and least divided the supporters of sound money. His selection then was a balance of conflicting issues and probabilities. It is no longer. He sums today in person and in character the overmastering current of national aspiration, determination and purpose. It sets and centers in him as it does in no other man, and to him the nation proposes to commit in the new era just opening before it the direction and execution of its desires and commands.

He stands the fortunate link between the struggle which saved the Union and the dawning determination that the United States shall be a power among the great powers of the earth. Our place is there. We mean to take it. President McKinley's nomination is more than the selection of a man for the presidency. It is the incarnation of a great national purpose, visible, manifest, puissant in his policy and personality.

His choice cuts sharp and deep through all the issues of the past. He was four years ago but the candidate of a settled and defined party platform. He is no longer. His appeal is to the nation. First a Republican and last a Republican, he stands as a Republican urging the embracing national purpose. His candidacy calls to his support all men that look out and not in, who look forward and not backward and who are determined that the nation shall lend a hand to the earth's hard labor of advancing civilization and promoting progress.

On this broad platform every American can stand. This standard all can follow who desire the protection of home industry, the promotion of a foreign market, a sound currency, a gold standard, a stable and growing banking system, higher wages for labor, higher profits for capital, the assertion of national authority, the widening of national influence, interests and ascendancy and a full knowledge of the power and resources of the United States, political and commercial, moral and material, through all the islands of the sea and all the lands of the earth.

For these things President McKinley stands. To promote these he was nominated. To insure them for four years more he will next November be elected by a nation grateful for his past services and determined to continue its support of the work he has begun.

Millionaire Democrats.

James R. Keene and Oliver H. P. Belmont are predicting Democratic success this year. Mr. Keene is the Wall street bear who thrives on commercial depression and has accumulated millions by reason of past financial distress. Mr. Belmont inherited his millions. Yes; the Democratic party is terribly opposed to the millionaires.

A Difficult Job.

General Joe Wheeler is finding it hard work to serve his country and maintain his place in the Democratic party.
